Dear Local Union Leader,

This past year has been difficult for working people, yet the labor movement has faced every obstacle. Together, we are taking on the challenges of our time with unmatched determination.

We fought, and continue to fight, for policies to protect and support workers and our families during the COVID-19 pandemic; we elected a pro-worker Congress and the most pro-worker president in a generation with Joe Biden; and we led the charge to win the Georgia runoff elections and flip the U.S. Senate.

This made it possible to secure the American Rescue Plan, which is delivering long-overdue COVID-19 relief to workers and our communities. We're positioned to win major infrastructure investments and, most importantly, build back better with unions by passing the PRO Act.

Now is the time to join labor leaders, activists and staff from your region of the country as we gather together virtually for the 2021 AFL-CIO District Meetings. We urge you to invite your local union coordinator to attend. We'll debrief challenges we faced over the past year, share the tools and tactics that worked, and prepare for the fight ahead. This will be especially important for our campaign to pass the PRO Act.

Visit DistrictMeetings.aflcio.org to register today. We look forward to bringing our union family together for these important strategy sessions.

In Solidarity,

Richard L. Trumka
President, AFL-CIO
